

Simple Ideas Can Resolve Major Problems Innovation

People are usually traditional in their behavior and they tend to do things the way it has been done before. Challenges and competition of today's world require the workforce to come up with new ideas and solutions to stay competitive.

American Astronauts while in space face difficulty in writing because of lost gravity the ink won't come down on the paper. NASA spent millions of dollars to develop a pen that can write in space and in water. Russian Astronauts overcome this problem without expenses by using pencil.